“ Chris called me Ma.when he was growing up. Being the best friend to my son Steve for years. I loved him being at the house anytime he wanted. Him and Stephen were part of our family. My hubby and I could see the 3 coming up the road he would say here comes the 3 musketeers. Id say nope they're partners in crime.lol One thing that comes to mind the past few days when Chris enters my mind is the tremendous love he had for his family. Rick would be upset at him or anyone in his family he would say Ma dads mad it me. I always told him it's outta the love we have for our children that we get upset. We always want better for them than what we had Chris. He said really that's how it works. Yes it is.... I've had the privilege to know all the Evans family. I loved the 3 growing up Lisa,Chris and Stephen. Rick and Neechie have been friends for years. My heart breaks for all of you. Just remember he lived hard. RIP Chris you are a child of God. I love you.

“ As I say goodbye brother I feel at peace knowing you are in gods arms in the paradise of joy. I will always be your baby sister. I will keep it real just like you said. I love you more than you love me. I will see you at the crossroads and you wont be lonely.
