“ I have had the privilege of knowing Lisa for most of my life. She was beautiful, kind, caring and my best friend. I also remember her as a little bit of a rebel when we were younger. We had so much fun together, even just watching our favorite weekday mid-afternoon soap opera together. There was always some wine and food involved. At times, over the years we would get busy with our own lives, but she was never far from my thoughts. I'm so very glad we were able to reconnect over the past year. I will miss talking and texting with her and truly believe that she is watching over those she loved.
Bruce, Thomas and Peter please know that you are in my thoughts and prayers.
All of my love, Nancy

“ Lisa was always a delight, always waving! I recall several times she was out back trying her hardest to get the dogs back inside when they would come over to say hi to Peri and me. Made all of us, including Lisa, laugh! Thinking of the Bisulca guys- all three of you.

“ Lisa,

I will always remember the times when we were much, much younger and you were the person who taught me how to play war and solitaire. I don't know if you ever new that, but you did. I remember being banished to the non-kids room and we played for hours. Too much time past and too many things got in the way that shouldn't have, but I wish I could play one more game of war against you to show you how good of a teacher you were.

I am choosing the last time we saw you as the memory to treasure, how Sue and I talked with you for two hours in the hospital and how you loved Bruce and how proud you were of Thomas and Peter. How we all could laugh about silly things, even though you were in pain.

I only have one more thing to say, deuces, one card, two card, three card, ace you win!
