Dear Allison: It's been 15 years since I've seen you. I was thinking of you lately and decided to go online to try and find you. That's when I read the news of your passing. I was devastated. You were such a beautiful young lady. I see from the pictures that you grew into a beautiful woman, and you found the love of your life. I believe that the two of you are eternally in heaven together. I remember the fun times we had in Miami and Hollywood. I remember Justin being such a beautiful baby and handsome little boy. I remember your friend Samantha and all the fun you guys had together. I remember Roger and his girlfriend who you were close with. I truly wish I would have found you sooner. It was such fun hanging out with you and just talking and having fun. Always making sure a certain person was not following us. I have missed you over the years. I always thought you would become a model. I use to love taking you to the mall and buying your favorite outfits. You always made anything you wore look good. After you left south Florida I had some things of yours that you asked me to hold. I could not find you so I contacted Thomas and his mom called me and I forwarded the stuff to her. It was mostly pictures of you and Justin. I just want to say thank you for the times you spent with me and for the happiness you brought into my life. You were a phenomenal person with a lot of good in her heart. Anyone who knew you loved you. I never stopped. May God Bless you and Javier.. and may the 2 of you be eternally happy together. Love and hugs.. James Duke McCabe

“ Me and Allison were very close and Best friends for 26 years. We have so many memories together some bad but many, many wonderful memories. We practically lived at each others houses. Her family was my family and mine was hers!!!! remember when we were younger we were always roller skating, we used to get yelled at when we went into the Chinki store they made us take them off. (lol) There was this little building in the corner of the fence at the park and we would lay on top of it and tan all the time. We loved to dance as well and have one a few dance contests together because we would make up dance routines all the time. I have been with her almost our entire life and I will miss that. I have so many more memories but I will keep them to myself for now. You are my heart and we will dance again my sister. xoxoxoxo

“ Well I can say for sure that she was a woman who took care of anyone who needed it.I meet her when I was about seventeen and she was about twelve years old,and that was because her brother Tony was married to my aunt Valerie and I can remeber going to see my aunt and seeing sugie there and of course being young I didnt pay to much attention to sugie because of her age. But I saw something latter in time that she would always be around in the park trying to look older than she was. I did love her has time went on and she grew on me with that button looking nose and that wide bright smile. She and I had a bond that I would say was like no other. I can't believe she is gone from this earth? I thought that one day I wolud get to see her and share some good stories together. I will always have her in my heart and it still hurts to even think about it. I Love You Sugie... You will always be my girl.. Love papalou..

“ I met Allison when I was 6. We became friends in 1982, when she and her family lived on 20th Ave. and 135 Terr. Our families grew up together and we stayed close friends over the years. As kids we spent many years hanging out together and at school. After school we had a fort in the woods, where we used to play and just be kids running wild and free. That was until Uncle Button and Willy would come out there and scare the life out of us with his muscle head mantra about how he's the protector and hanging out in a fort was against the rules.

My greatest memory of Allison is when we all (and when I say we all I mean about seven of us from the neighborhood) went out to Marti Gras. Of course we were all underage, but somehow we had gotten wine coolers and rolled out to the club. Before we went in we all agreed to drink a wine cooler then go in. Well Allison refused to drink one because they smelled bad, and tasted funny, so I drank the one she wouldn't.

Needless to say, by the time we got up to the entrance I was less than able to stand up, and Allison was keeping me from falling over and told the security guard that I got sick of waiting in line and was about to throw up. So the security guard escorted us to the area where the restrooms were located, and when the security guard left us... I jumped up and started singing "Let's get this party started right" which was the billboard chart song of the week back then. She was laughing at me and called me super stupid steven and told me I "was on my own from here on". She wasn't kidding. We got in for free, and laughed about it for days on end, because that was according to her... the craziest thing she'd ever seen someone do.

In retrospect... I have to agree... that was a lil bit crazy, but the end result was that we got in for free, and made it past "inspector gadget" who was there to make sure noone drunk got past him, and into the club. That is just a few of the many great memories that I have shared with Allison and family.

As we move forward in life and we try to cope with the loss of our beloved Allison, we should try to reflect on the wonderful memories that have shared, that help make us who we are today. Allison has been a major part of my life since I was six years old. Her family and I were as close as a family can be. Allison's mom pretty much adopted me when I ran away, and didn't want to go home, They took care of me like I was their brother. I cherish those memories because they are all that I have. And as I reflect on Allison, what I see is a little girl with a bright smile, who never caused any harm, and tried her best to be the best she could in life overcoming the struggles we faced as kids.

I loved Allison in life, as I love her in mourning. I will never forget our friendship, and I will always remember Allison, and honor Allison and her family as people who cared about me and my family. I love you Allison. I will miss you. May God watch over you, and bless you and your family.
