“ He was one of the best teachers that I ever had. He had a way of bringing history to life. I was thinking about him as I was watching the documentary about The Vietnam War and the Tet Offensive. He told us an incredible story about his survival during that event. He told us that if we ever saw a protest "beat feet the other way". He also gave us a copy of the US Declaration of Independence/Constitution and said if he ever saw us outside of school and we had it, he would raise our grade by a grade level. I am 46 years old and still have the same copy that he gave us.

He wrote me a letter of recommendation to college when I don't think that I deserved it.

He was a wonderful person. I don't know if he knew this but we privately called him "Papa Bertholf" because when you were in his class, you felt comforted. Everyone should be so lucky to have a teacher like him.

I am sorry that I wrote this so late. I thought about him from time to time over the years and I wondered what happened to him.

He was a great man. He will be missed.
