

Christopher C. Salegumba

January 12, 1926 - December 5, 2019

Christopher C. Salegumba, 93, of Altamonte Springs, Florida passed away on Thursday December 5, 2019. Mr. Salegumba was born on January 12, 1926 in Basco, Batanes, Philippines to parents Teodorico Salegumba and Bonosa C. Salegumba.

He is survived by his wife, Sinaglaya V. Salegumba; daughter, Sharon (Edwin) Sloan; sons: Jonathan (Elisabeth) Salegumba and Timothy (Noemi) Salegumba; grandchildren: Seven, Jacob, James, and Abby and many loving family and friends.

Tribute Wall

EB

“ We are praying for all of you all during this difficult time! ❤️ ❤️ ❤️
❤️

Eleanor Baumner - December 10, 2019 at 08:14 PM

“ I can't remember the year, day or time but the act is embedded forever.

Something happened in the church that day. Several young people were left praying and singing in the church while some of the elders were at a meeting somewhere.

When I came in, the people in the church were all crying. Some were wailing, others were just quietly sobbing in a corner. Not knowing what was happening, I just knelt quietly in front of the stage and just started praying.

I haven't really gotten far in my prayers when I found my self crying and crying and just couldn't stop. I was oblivious to the time. I probably was crying for about 20mins. Suddenly I felt someone embraced me and began to stroke my back. I opened my eyes and glanced at my back and saw my Dad. He didn't say a word for several minutes but just sat beside me and was trying to comfort me. He did not know what was happening.

After several minutes he asked me to stand and said let's go home. Even as we were walking back home, I kept crying. As I recall today, all I know was that God did something.

When we came home Dad asked me to take a shower. Maybe he was hoping it would ease me somehow from crying. But I kept crying even as water was flowing on my face.

Then suddenly I felt Dad hugging me from the back. His arms wrapped around me and trying to comfort me. Then I noticed after several seconds I guess, he kept hugging me even when his clothes were all getting soaked.

To this day, when ever I reflect on how our heavenly Father loves me, that act of my Dad is the most vivid and comforting assurance that keeps me afloat and living even in the most difficult times such as this.

I LOVE YOU DADDY!

Timo - December 10, 2019 at 03:45 PM

SA

“ My deepest sympathy to Sharon and all of the family on Mr. Christopher's death. He was a great man and will be sadly missed. My family and I pray that God watches over your family. God bless you.

sal - December 10, 2019 at 01:08 PM