“ This is such a difficult post to make & have been trying to gather the strength to say goodbye to one of my closest homies. Meet Danny Turano. One of the funniest (and loudest) guys I know. Always with a smile on his face, locked & loaded with the jokes ready to go! He would give you the shirt off his back & was quick to help me out no matter the situation. Whether helping the fam & I move, yard work, shooting magic videos or him being excited to help me out at a magic show. He was always willing to hang & help a brother out. We loved taking about music, Oak Island Mysteries, Ancient Aliens & MCU Movies...My kids call him Uncle Danny! We always had a friendly competition going... Who's the better rapper? Who found the dopest action figure to add to the collection. Who lifted more in the gym (Danny was super strong.) I remember the time he even busted out a magic trick to impress our friends (Darrell remember that?) Regardless, Danny was one of my biggest supporters always encouraging me to make more magic videos and would always brag to peeps that I was the BEST magician! Nothing but great memories from our South Pole Frozen Soul Adventures! Man I miss you bro! The pain of losing you will never fade like the memories of great times we shared. I'm not the only one who has a hole in their heart. My prayers & condolences go out to his Mother Teresa, sister Vanessa-Renee & his wifey Cara. Danny Turano is now hanging with his Pops Lenny in Heaven & I have a new guardian angel watching my back. You told me "I love you Brother" in your last voicemail... I love you too "Titts." Rest easy brother. I'm crying as I type this but will always smile when I hear you saying "Fuhgeddaboutit!"
