“ My dear sister taught me to tie my shoes. She taught me to read. She let me tag along with her when we were young. I looked up to her for her goodness, kindness and brilliance. We travelled together and shared wonderful experiences. She helped me discover my hobby of over forty years. She shared her children's lives with me. Shara and Brent are the greatest two people I know, which is a tribute to the quality of their mother (and father). I will miss her and love her forever. Ellen
