“ Hurricane Helene is about to descend on the West Coast of Florida. Mr. Eloshway was my 10th grade geography teacher at Northeast high school in St. Petersburg. It would have been 19 78–79. He was a wonderful teacher, one of my favorites. He was kind and he was respectful of his students never condescending or dismissive. And he was very creative in his teaching, which I loved. I remember distinctly him talking about hurricanes hitting the state of Florida that year in class. He said we had not had a “big one “, but that there was one coming. I remember him saying that it’s not if it’s coming, it’s when it’s coming. That always stood out in my mind. With Helene bearing down on Florida I’ve been thinking of Mr. Eloshway and what he said that year to his students. I decided to Google him and was very sorry to see that he passed 5 1/2 years ago. My condolences to his family, he was a wonderful man. Mr. Eloshway was not wrong about a big one hitting the West Coast to Florida, unfortunately. I wish everyone well and I’m sure Mr. Eloshway is there to protect all those that he loves. God bless his soul. Michelle Judd

“ Bryan - family posted a condolence Ed meant a lot to many people. From the thousands of young lives he touched as a counselor and teacher, to his loving wife and children, he will be missed. I will miss your bad jokes and long stories, but more importantly, I'll just miss you being there to tell them (just as long as there isn't a FSU game on). Take care my man.

“ Penny - Friend posted a condolence I was saddened to hear the news of Ed's passing. Although our paths had not crossed as often as in the past, I still remember his sense of humor and the way he always welcomed me with a hug. I was fortunate to enjoy his family's company in their home surrounded by Christian music and singing, or dinners out with many of those family and friends. Ed was always the center of it. My deepest condolences to my dear friend Pearl, to Steve, and Kerry, Bryan and Savannah. I have no doubt that Ed is enjoying the beautiful sights and heavenly sounds great in the presence of our Lord.

“ Tom Picras - Long time friend posted a condolence Ed and I met in Tampa in 1967, working in the same office as State Parole Officers. We were roommates and shared in lots of fun on the weekends catching and smoking mullet. We haven't eaten Mullet since. Work was hard, but times were fun. Not only did we fish, but also hunted together. His greatest accomplishment was introducing me to a female classmate from FSU and a Parole Officer also in our Tampa office. Now after 50 years of marriage, I am still under her supervision. Ed was a wonderful, kindhearted, devoted husband and father who will be greatly missed. Good times will never be forgotten. “ Sue Suddith - student posted a condolence Mr. E was hands down my favorite teacher at SPHS (Class of 75). His inclusive compassion for kids that were not popular or 'stand outs' made us feel good about ourselves. He made high school bearable for me. Best wishes and love to his family.
