My friend was the funniest person I know. She said what she meant and meant what she said. Going to miss you!

“ Well, where do I start!! Already crying. Ms. Elma, you were another mother to me. I could come over and visit without Sheila or Joanne even being home. I could come over and have breakfast before school, just as if I was one of your children. If you guys went to the mall, i went. Just so many memories. You were my other mom, and your children were my sisters and brothers. When you guys moved, it was one of the saddest days in my life. A part of my family was leaving me. My protectors, my big sisters, not knowing the next time I would see you guys again. Wow!! My heart is broken that I never got a chance to see you once you guys moved. I will always love you, and I am so grateful for the time that you were in my life, and the time you allowed me to be in yours.

“ As I sit, and have cup of coffee every morning, I think of you Momma. I am truly thankful to God that I got to spend as much time with you as I could. Being the baby, I was the last, but even with being the last, you taught me the same values of God and living correctly as you did the same to my 4 other siblings. You were actually preparing me for this transition that took place, and I never realized it. You cannot hear my thank you, but I got it. Thanks Momma.....I love you.
