Gerry was born in Sanford, FL and moved to South Florida when she was in elementary school. Upon graduation from Belle Glade High School, she attended the University of Florida and was among the first female class members allowed to live on campus. She met her husband, Earl S. She touched many lives through her career and repeatedly had former students recognizing her and fondly remembering her as their teacher.

Gerry was an active member of the Sanford Garden Club, Beta Chi and the

P.E.O. Sisterhood, Chapter Y. She was a member of the Foundation at Seminole State College, where her husband was the founding President. She is fondly referred to as the First Lady of Seminole State.

“Wayne Dyer always said, “When you squeeze an orange, what always comes out?” Well oranges of course, which was the point, in that who we are inside can’t help but find its way out. Well when you “squeezed” Gerry, you always got Joy. She was shining from the inside out, regardless of what trials life dealt her along the way. Sometimes I think that grief carves a vessel so deep that eventually that giant space can be filled with joy.

Last December I arrived at Gerry’s retirement home with a box of cookies baked by members of our Ixora Garden Club ladies, a club she had been a member and leader of for many years. When I got to her room and knocked on the door I heard jingle bells on the other side and was convinced they were connected to the doorbell somehow. When she opened the door she gave me a huge smile and hug and invited me to sit on the couch with her for a chat. The mysterious sound of the jingle bells continued. I finally asked her where the bells were coming from and she pointed down to her sneakers where I discovered that she had stung bells through them! I asked her if someone was wanting to keep tabs on her every move and she said “Well I do have an admirer down the hall, but no I put these there and let me tell you why...” She then told me all about when she was teaching little ones in school and how she had a mandatory rule that each child had to wear them on their shoes. I think it was that she wanted to know where they were but she had that mischievous look in her eye that told me she wanted them to remember to find joy every day during the holiday season. She said this was particularly special because she had students visiting her forty or fifty years later and some of them still remembered this rule and made their children wear them with them during the holidays so her tradition was living on. This made her so happy.

She truly cared about people and listened to them with genuine curiosity and interest, which led one to feel heard and loved which is a wonderful gift to have. She will be missed but her lessons can live on through all of us who were lucky enough to know her.

“Gerry and I taught kdg together when I first moved to Seminole county. She was my mentor and wonderful friend. It was my pleasure to later teach both of her grandchildren, Kara and Josh. Loved Gerry and her family.

“I worked alongside Gerry in the kindergarten "pod" at Idyllwilde Elementary. She was such joy to work with! Always smiling, always patient, and with a wicked sense of humor! Gerry epitomized grace and style in everything she did, whether it was putting together a kindergarten art activity or planning a reception for a Seminole State function. She was a mentor to me, but, more importantly, a dear friend. She left a glorious legacy, and I feel so blessed to have known her.
