“ Family.....Maybe not by blood, but certainly by love. Greg and his beautiful wife Carol have been a part of our lives for many years. Kind, caring, and selfless are a few words that come to mind in regards to both of them. Over the years, we spent countless hours together. Whether we were spread around a card table, battling it out with nerf guns with my grandchildren, talking trash during a cornhole game, or just simply enjoying a good meal and a cold drink... Greg and Carol were a staple in our lives. Greg was always willing to lend a hand, an ear to listen, and sometimes a shoulder to cry on. What a devastating loss of such a wonderful human being. My daughter joked with him that in their next lives, the two of them would be born filthy rich instead of so good looking and funny. We could always count on Greg's sense of humor to give us all a good laugh. That is just a small part of what made him such a special friend... and just one of the things our family will miss. Carol, Trisha, and Melissa you have our most sincere condolences. Carol, you loved Greg fiercely, and he loved you the same in return. Given the huge task of caring for the love of your life as he fought such a huge battle, you handled it with grace, love and dignity. Which comes as no surprise to those who know and love you both. Greg, Shu-b-doo, thank you for being such a shining example of a man and a friend. You will never be forgotten, old friend.

“ In an email to Greg recently, I said “...next time I see you, I'm still going to call you a jerk, because that's how the cool people like us roll...” I knew when I wrote that email that I would probably not get to see Greg again. Life just isn't fair. He was one of the very few people I have come across in my life who I can say, without a doubt, was one of the good ones. Greg and I have tormented one another for many, many years and the pleasure has been all mine. Greg, along with his gem of a wife, Carol, are the epitome of goodness. I will sorely miss calling Greg names, and getting razzed by him. If love could've saved you, you would still be here, Greg. So long, friend. Save me a spot up there at the card table.

“ Thinking of happy times with family at the holidays and special celebrations. My first job babysitting your girls, Trisha and Melissa. Remembering that you helped me get to Virginia for my job at the FBI. Giving money to Zach and Paige for the ice cream man visiting Aunt Gertie. Praying for your peaceful rest. Condolences to Trisha, Melissa and your brother and sisters during this difficult time. Love,
Cousins Lisa, Zachary and Paige

“ I'll always remember you for taking care of me in early days of elementary school. I would get scared and you came to my rescue. Last time I saw you. I asked how you were and your remark was "I'm fine. But you never know what is going on in your body" we never knew you were sick. Not even your sisters or brother, so I'll remember the handsome cousin that you were. Rest easy my cousin. Watch over us all. Give my Dad a hug from me.
