“ This was my uncle, on my mother's side. I remember always bringing home a pint of whiskey when he would visit, until I was told by his last wife she had him on the wagon. I remember going to Montana to learn the telephone line trade from him so I knew what he did. He was a hard worker he loved his two daughters though one really was not allowed to know him he worked so hard to try to get visitation. His first wife made it her mission to take him to court over everything. He died in the house my grandma Hazel left him. I miss him, and can't wait to see him soon. Love you uncle Mike. I am so sorry it took someone so long to post on here for you
