“ Irving and I shared the same birthday. We always related our good wishes and celebration to each other. He was a good man with great work ethics. On occasion we spoke of our families and his illness. We had seen each other at the same oncology clinic where he joked and tease like he did at work. He spoke of his family with pride. He was so excited when his granddaughter was born, finally a girl! When Gloria's picture and article on her singing was in the Orlando paper he posted it on the break room bulletin board. I will miss "Grumpy", his humor and attitude and will especially remember him every September 7. God's peace and blessings to his family. Nelda and Tom Klaserner
