“ Jenny and I shared many texts and talks about our family history, and various topics of interest. She loved family and had an overwhelming interest in learning all she could about our family tree. Like me, she wished our family had reunions and expressed a desire in wanting to make one happen. She was also very interested in the family memoir I'm writing and offered to help any way she could. I'm saddened by her sudden passing. She was way too young to leave those who loved and needed her in their lives. Knowing how sweet and compassionate Jenny was I believe she was needed elsewhere to help those who would benefit from her kind nature. I know our heart to heart conversations with her words of encouragement were a comfort to me. She had a big heart for her family and friends and wanted them to be happy and successful in all they did. I'm sure she's in a beautiful place getting to know our family ancestors, sharing stories, and seeking ways she can help others from afar and better world of existence. Jenny's virtual presence will be missed on earth, but her spirit will always remain with those who loved and appreciated her gentle nature. God be with, sweet cousin.
