“ John was one of the most caring and warm individuals that one could wish to meet. He was a superb Real Estate Representative where he made sure that you were really happy with your home purchase and checked to make sure everything was O.K. I remember him fondly and always think of him with a smile. My sincerest condolences to his family. Joyce Aldworth

“ John Saggio was my friend. I met him at RE/MAX where he came in daily, prior to leaving for health reasons.

He would sit at the computer, checking his investments talking about some energy stock getting me interested in the story.

He would engage me with the sports stories from the Olympics to basketball, baseball, football, tennis, you call it and John knew it all, he loved his sports trivia. And his ability to reconstruct the game in detail, almost had you sitting at front seat, center court.

I especially enjoyed driving through the streets of Winter Park with John, he had a wealth of intricate history about Winter Park that only John knew because it was so intimate to him.

John was very, very passionate about his family, he told me wonderful stories about his daughters and grand children. How he raised them in Winter Park and the journey of being a parent, it was personal and sweet.

He introduced me Winter Park Diner at Harold Ave and Fairbanks, in Winter Park. When we walked in everyone from Linda, the owner to the bus-boy were so welcoming, it was as if he just "got home for lunch." He really enjoyed going there and I'm sure they treated him like their own.

Lastly, I want to say that John loved people, he enjoyed his work and enjoyed being around people. He was always so amused by children as they constantly kept his attention, while he would come up with silly games and tricks to entertain them.

*So in bidding fair well, I want to say thank you to John.
Thank you for teaching me to smile through life more.
Thank you for your friendship and conversations.
Thank you for being a friend.*

In peace, may the force be with you!
