“ Dianna J Williams - Friend of Caban family posted a condolence When the clouds are dark and stormy and have blocked the sunshine out, And perhaps you start to wonder what this life is all about, When your personal jigsaw puzzle has some pieces that won't fit, When life has no rhyme or reason and you can't make sense of it. It may be you need to look a little higher than before, or perhaps a little further to see past the clouds once more. But you'll know it's worth the effort when your rainbow you see, And you understand the Love God's creativity. For your rainbow holds a promise that this turbulence will cease, And your inner conflict will become, instead, deep inner peace. But if, though searching, you can't find your rainbow at this time, until you can, I say with Love, you're welcome to share mine. May God see both families through this.
