In Loving Memory of Joseph Daniels

January 23, 1964 – July 31, 2024

Remembering Joe on the 1st Anniversary of His Passing

"He didn't say much, but he saw everything."

— A quiet man with a generous soul

One year ago, we lost Joseph Daniels—a man of quiet strength, loyal friendship, and deep devotion. Though he's no longer with us, the impact of his life remains present in every memory, every quiet moment, and every kind act he inspired.

Joe was married to Cathy Daniels for 24 years, and their marriage was one built on love, trust, and unwavering support. He was a good man—modest, observant, and selfless. Joe didn't speak often, but his actions spoke volumes. He had a way of showing up for people—not with grand gestures, but with steady loyalty and quiet understanding.

He worked for 25 years at Waste Management, where he earned respect through his work ethic and reliability. Joe believed in doing things right, being someone, you could count on and lending a hand when it was needed—no questions asked.

Though he had no children of his own, Joe embraced Cathy's four grandchildren as if they were his. He became a loving and devoted grandfather figure—someone who showed up to support, to listen, and to love without limits.

Joe was generous but frugal. He didn't seek attention, but if you needed him, he was already there. He gave what he had, and he gave it gladly.

As we mark one year without him, we hold onto what he left behind: the example of a life lived with humility, kindness, and quiet strength. Joe's absence is deeply felt, but so is his presence—in the stories we tell, the lessons we carry, and the love that endures.

Forever remembered. Forever missed. Forever loved.

“ Joe was a good man, I only knew him for a few years but he made impact. I will always cherish the memories I have of my time with Joe. Wish he was here for our wedding but I know he'd be proud of Steve. Rest in Paradise Joe.
