“ Lee Olsen was a dear friend and mentor of 25 years. I loved and truly cherished every phone call and story we shared. As I grieve this loss, I am listening to an audio interview from 2017 and I am once again enjoying Lee's amazing gift of storytelling. Lee, I am so happy your are now reunited with Marlene. You lived an amazing life and I was honored to share a part of it with you. Rest In Peace My Dear Friend.

“ Lee was a longtime friend, who helped me a lot. He was incredibly smart and resourceful, which allowed him to survive as a combat photographer for the US Army during the Korean War, and enabled him to get many scoops and great photos during his newspaper career. He had many amazing stories and a great knowledge of important events and people that he covered or met. Lee and his late wife Marlene raised three great children who are now adults, with successful careers. Lee greatly loved Marlene, and grieved her long after her death in 2012. And he loved his grandchildren. He is greatly missed, and fondly remembered.
