

Marsha Bachelor

August 15, 2012

Marsha was a very spiritual person, her faith in God was steadfast. God was merciful in not prolonging the horror that cancer inflicts on the body. She survived two bouts prior to this. All we can do is come to terms with the realization we will pass on in God's time and make the best of our lives during the interim. Embrace your family and friends, let them know how much they mean to you and express your love each day.

For those who may not realize it, Marsha was self taught on guitar, steel guitar, bass and drums. She was a lefty, having to learn on right handed stringed instruments. She sang and played in church with her parents, then step parents who were all preachers. She began her job at Southern Manufacturing as a sewer and worked her way up to supervisor over approximately 60 employees. She found another family in her relationship with the employees and owners of Southern. I know she would want them all to know how much she appreciated their kindness and friendship.

Marsha was a loving and compassionate individual, she treated others with respect. Anyone fortunate to meet her and chat for a while would always feel at home with her country, down home charm. God has truly blessed us by her presence in our lives. We all miss you and love you dearly.
