“Michelle although I found out after your passing I still mourn you as if it was yesterday. You being gone is still crushing to this day. You were my Rock. When you felt I was upset or bothering any type of way on the phone, without me even asking you too, you came right to me no matter what you we're going through on your own. You are so loving & you showed it with everything you had in you, from your kind words to your funny jokes. You always made me smile. You loved to hug and I loved that about you. Let's not to mention I knew you since kindergarten. My friend you were as soon as we met. We walked a million times to each other on McClellandtown road just to see each other for only 10 mins on the side of the roads because our parents didn't know we even left our houses. Lol you taught me how to ride a horse. I was so scared. But you made me so comfortable and calmed me down so easily because you knew I had hyperness from birth 😂 oh I miss you. I still have all the gifts Michelle has given me. She loved buying things for everyone to make them smile ❤️ even if it's just a candy bar all the way to gifts from me just being sick, sent right to my job! ☐ My kids immediately loved her as soon as they met Michelle. She just has that Ora about her ❤️ to everyone who got to be Michelle's friend or how ever you met her. I know that you feel the way I feel. Here to a hug to you from me and to Michelle, we will forever be friends until I see you again. Pinky promise 🧐☐
