“ It's been a year since the day I found out you passed away. This date exactly when I came home from Ecuador. Not a day has gone by where you are not on my mind. I miss you so much. I think about you all the time. Even in situations like "what would Nancy do?" Why? Because you were the strongest women I have ever known. I can go on and on about you. But I know one day I will see you again, and I can't wait to celebrate joy with you.

“ I miss you everyday Aunt Nancy. One of my first memories with you was flying to Orlando and I remember thinking how cool it was that you used to fly all the time. I like to think of you in an airplane, always going on some really awesome vacation like you and Uncle Ralph always did. I love you and will see you again someday.

“The first time my dad ever talked to me about Nancy, I swear it was like listening to a prepubescent teenager gushing over the high school prom queen. My dad is going on and on about her style, how “phenomenal” and beautiful she was. All I could think about was “does she know what she's gotten herself into?!” Our family is loud, obnoxious, borderline crazy... as the majority of you know. I was worried that the second she met all us “Browns”, she'd be out of the door, and never looking back. Meeting her wasn't epic, frankly, I wasn't excited. I was in high school worrying about grades and my boyfriend. I was kind of like “meh, this is going to be weird.” She did seem nice enough though, and I was willing to go along for the ride. I remember not too long after meeting Nancy, she giving me a job to clean her house twice a month. I am or at least I used to be a REALLY clean person; I was the child that would constantly rearrange furniture, and it was always in tip top condition. I honestly thought that cleaning her house would be just as pleasant as cleaning my room. Ha...ha... she was a real stickler when it came to dusting! Needless to say, it went from being twice a month, to once a month, every other month... you get it. I think she just did it to appease my dad.

Getting to know Nancy and how she and my dad have grown, especially my dad, has been an awe-inspiring experience. The best parts about visiting them were the ridiculously long conversations she and I would have together (drunk or not). We talked about everything. I will never forget that laugh of hers.

She may not have been a gym rat or fought in the military, but Nancy is the strongest and bravest person I have ever met. Most people couldn't handle a fraction of what she's gone through and not for nearly as long. She was a fighter until the very end. I know this would not have happened had it not been for my dad and his love for her. I have never seen such devotion and compassion in my life! What they have is eternal and undying, not too many have the chance to experience that, not even close.

I know my dad is hurting, and that's ok. Just remember, especially during times of doubt and discord, “I believe death is only a door. One closes, and another opens. If I were to imagine heaven, I would imagine a door opening. And SHE would be waiting for me there.”

“ Nancy and I met in 1989 -ish. I worked for one of those little Payroll Companies ADP had bought and was in the process of converting to ADP products. Nancy was there converting GL's and I was there to help her understand how we set them up. She was so professional and yet so personable that I tried to mimic her style in my future positions. As my career continues to morph in and out of ADP and National Accounts she was always there.

She never spoke of being sick and she was a private LADY who opted not to share what she was going through. I tried to - again - mimic that LADY and not ask her about it.

In one of the last conversations I had with her. She told me about a concert she and Ralph had been to in NY and how much fun it was to be with her husband.

Nancy - it was a great pleasure to have worked with you and the respect and admiration I have for you will be with me until we meet again. Hail Mary, full of GRACE.

Susie: Your sister was amazing. I am enjoying getting to work with you as well. Know that your ADP family is here for you in your time of need.

Nancy's family: Thank you for sharing this lovely lady with us. May you feel the power of the number of people she touched and gain some comfort in your loss. My thoughts and prayers are with you all in this time of need.

“ Nancy: If sisters are different flowers from the same garden, then you were our Sunflower. Warm. Welcoming. Lifting everyone's spirits. When I was little, I was in awe of your regal beauty. . . no wonder Ralph called you his Queen. You inspired adoration. I so loved your Yardley makeup, Bobbie Brooks blouses and skinny jeans. As my big sister, you were my North Star . . .my constant guiding light, my glimpse into what lies ahead. And then one day you became my friend. Confidant. Kindred spirit. Generous listener. A devoted wife and loving stepmother.

“ Nancy Campbell Brown was loved so much... she was an amazing wife, a loving sister, and a wonderful stepmom... and you would have been blessed to have her in your life as a friend.

Nancy was my friend... she was the other half to my best friend (her husband Ralph)... and for those of you that know Ralph and my friendship... we were “ lovingly” at each other all the time...(some may NOT have seen it that way) but Nancy unfortunately was kind enough to tolerate our taunting... (I honestly wondered what she really thought about the both of us)

I live in NJ, and being that Ralph and Nancy live in Florida, we didn't get the chance to be together as much as we would have liked... but every time they came North... we would get together... whether in the city for dinner, Jersey City for pancakes or sharing Thanksgiving with my family. We stayed in touch through email, Facebook and phone calls. She loved to travel and she shared her stories and pictures of her many snorkeling adventures. Nancy made my son and his friends so welcomed at their home when they visited Orlando for vacation.

Nancy was a wonderful person and was such a strong person through and through, from her character, personality and presence ... She was exceptionally loving and incredibly trustworthy and loyal. She was very supportive and protective of those she loved. Family was so very important to her. As a wife, Nancy was Ralph's ANGEL on earth that kept him grounded and supported him in everything he did. And I know that she will be his ANGEL from HEAVEN looking over him.

Nancy loved us all very much! She adored her family and she treasured her friends and touched us in so many ways.

As I reflect, I know that Nancy would want me to remember the happiest times that she shared with all of us in that special way... Nancy was a fighter, as she dealt with her illness, she gave everyone strength... and she demonstrated that we are to live our life to the fullest.

It was an honor to have Nancy in my life and I know that she is still here with me, very strongly in spirit.

Nancy... I love you and will miss you... I will be there for Ralph... my brother, best friend and your loving husband as he fills his days with the loving memories of the great times you shared together.

“ What a pleasure to know Ms. Nancy Brown ... a kind, loving person who shared her love of life with all who came into her presence. Words for a loss like this one just don't exist. So I found a poem that expresses my feelings about our loss of Nancy.

*Those we Love remain with us,
for Love itself lives on.
Cherished memories never fade,
because a loved one is gone.
Those we Love can never be,
more than a thought apart.
For as long as there is a memory,
they'll live on in our heart.*

Love to you all Brown Family. Hugs Pam

“ When I met Nancy about 16 years ago she instantly became one of my favorite coworkers and that feeling was only reinforced over time. I can still see that wonderful smile and hear that infectious laugh. She was a gracious, intelligent, funny and dedicated friend who never missed an opportunity to help someone. There is no one else like her and she will be sorely missed. My most sincere condolences to her family and friends. She is unforgettable.

“ To Nancy's family and friends, I am sorry for your loss. I met Nancy after attending Southeastern Academy in 1980. We were roommates for a short time until I moved back to Indiana to be near my family. It has been many years, and we didn't keep in contact, but for a short period of time she was a supportive friend with a laugh and smile I will always remember. God bless you all. Karen Venne

“ Before my lovely stepmother had passed, I was writing her a letter to show how much I admire her. I didn't finish it, and sadly did not get to show her. But, I thought I could share what I have written so far.

To my dearest Nancy,
Words cannot express how much I admire your brilliance. You've shown me how to look at situations in a positive, yet respectful manner. Your beauty still ceases to amaze me, I have learned to make myself presentable in different atmospheres all because of you! Nancy, what great love you have shown me, in the beginning I was a stubborn little brat who would yell at you for cookies at Publix. Well of course I have grown out of that. But now, I have such a special bond with you, I look up to you. Miss Campbell you are my role model, you are the exact definition of a woman. You are the strongest person I have ever met. I know I haven't been the best daughter, I am selfish, messy, lazy, and stubborn, the list could go on, but I just want you to know the love I have for you. I love you so much, so much I could about all the reason I do love you! You are such a big part in my life, which will forever be with me.

Nancy, I love you with all my heart.

“ Nancy was my dear friend and best buddy. I met her in 1978 while working as Placement counselors for Southeastern Academy in Kissimmee. We went through so much together, the sweet and the tragic. Most tragic was losing her so soon. She saw my children grow up, the many changes one goes through in life and still we remained close. You will be missed profoundly, my friend, not only by me , but by everyone you touched in your life. I love you....
