“ I just want you all to know that it was my honor meeting your son and trying to help heal his wounds and get better. I told you he reminded me so much of my own son down to the thick curly hair, beard and his cheeks popping out when he smiled. I promised him I would keep him in my prayers when I spoke with him. I have kept that promise and have kept you all in my prayers as well. I can only imagine his hearty laugh and the love he had for all.....he is now whole and at peace....I hope you find comfort in that. May God keep you in the palms of his hands to comfort and give you strength.....from the bottom of my heart I am sorry. Kathy Bucci RN - Wound Care CFRH.

“ I was very honored to be able to meet your son and try to help take care of him. As I told you, he reminds me so much of my own son and I was taken aback looking into that beautiful smile and loads of curly hair and beard. He touched my heart and I have been praying for him and you all for the best. I asked God to hold him in his arms and give comfort. I know he is whole and at peace looking down and wanting to take away your pain. His memories will comfort you and I will continue to keep you in my heart and prayers. God be with you. ..Kathy RN - Wound Care.
