“ Mom, you are a fighter and in my heart I know that your in a better place. Thank you for all of your words of wisdom and making me believe if you can do it so can I.

Brandon is missing you and I know that your great granddaughter Isabella may not know you now but she will never tire of stories of you. I love you mom and I don't know how people survive such a thing as this, it's hard right now and I pray that as time goes on its gets easier.

Yesterday at your celebration we swore it was you when all of the sudden out of know where some balloons started popping.

The club house was full of loved ones and friends, coworkers whom all spoke highly of you and showed their love for you.

Today I grab my phone to call you and yes, it sunk in that I can no longer do that so I replayed a recording VM you left for me before you got sick.

My heart is empty and the tears still come and no given notice. It's love mom, my lord for you goes deep, deeper than the ocean wider than the seas. You are forever in my heart. I love you always- Diana “ Nina always had such a warm sweet smile, every time I saw her. Last time was In Smyrna, she just lit up the room.

“ Nina was my best friend. I called her Ms. Lane for most of our friendship because she was the school bus assistant the only year I attended public school in Florida and really my only friend during that difficult year. She and I shared a love for music, especially rock and roll music. We remained friends for the last twenty six years and I finally started calling her Nina when she told me at age 27 it was weird that I still called her Ms. Lane. She was the only person that I would play the guitar for because it's difficult with my disability. She would say it was just the two of us and she loved me so whatever I played was beautiful. This past Christmas Nina gave me a gift card that enabled me to take my American made guitar that I worked so hard to play and make it easier by reversing the string order and she was thrilled that I could play a song without struggle. She believed in me. Nina was the kind of lady that when she loved you, she always loved you and though I miss her terribly I know she loved me as much as I loved her and she's now in a better place.

Just one of the many days we shared in Ormond Beach together walking on the beach and picking up shells. A favorite place of Nina's was her "Moon Room" at the beach condo.

Nina's birthday party at the river. She had two birthday cakes. She loved dragon flies and had a dragon fly room in our home on the St. Johns River. One of the pictures she loved is in the background.
