Richard Robert Angelo “Rick”, age 72 from Isabella, PA died peacefully at his home surrounded by his family. “Pubba” as his surviving brothers Gregory Phillip Angelo and Vincent Louis (Barbara) Angelo nicknamed him, will remember him best as the family storyteller.

He worked in the construction industry for over 50 years and retired as a highway inspector. He loved carpentry, computers, and playing his hammond organ and harmonica. His love for the Pittsburgh Pirates and baseball will live forever through his family.

He leaves behind his loving grandchildren Carter, Alexandria (Corey), Emily, Nicolas, Phillip, Camron, Christian, Bentley and great granddaughter Olivia “Livi”. They often referred to him as “Grandude” and he will always be remembered as their fun “Grandad” who loved them so much.

Rick also has many nieces and nephews he loved very much and thought of often.

He was preceded in death by his parents Annaglad Joseph Angelo and Anna Marie Montinino Angelo, his sister Anna Marie Angelo Lyons, his first wife and the mother of his children Sharon Lee Angelo, and his sister-in-law Joyce Angelo, and son-in-law Ernie Smith.

“ Growing up in that village years ago, just about everyone knew each other. I remember Ricky with his two boys, Dino and Rocky fixing their dirt bikes in his, at that time workshop by the post office . He would tinker with the bikes and after repairing the three would with their helmets on ride from the garage to the top road and eventually end up on the slate dump, there in the “patch” . Even at that age, he was very family orientated. I’m sure with all the kids he was doing his father/ grandfather thing with, they picked up his family traits.
