“ Cherie Murray - friend posted a condolence My heartfelt sympathies to all of you. It will be the little things that you will remember. The quiet moments, the smiles, the laughter. It may seem hard right now, but it will be the memory of these little things that help bring the smiles back again. God Bless.

“ Laurie VanLoo - Friend posted a condolence As Pam & Don's second family at the office, thoughts and prayers for you, Mom, Rob, Terri & Paul and all the grandchildren, have been at the forefront this past week. You have helped both Cherie and me in grief we could not have endured without you. We hope to give you as much love and support. I know there have been many sad goodbyes said in your hearts and heads this past week. May this first official day of goodbye to your Bubba be more than a tribute to him, but also a day of remembrance, of gathered family & friends sharing fond and funny stories of memories made with him, even the telling of tall tales to let in a glimmer of light. Laughing and crying at the same time is both cathartic and healing. I think Bubba and my Roxy are going to like each other a lot--no doubt up there right now tryin to tell God how to run the joint! I know God will watch over you today and in the days to come. And we will be here to help in whatever way you have need. Much love--Laurie
