“ A funny memory I have of my dad was when him and I were in our backyard and he picked up a chair and I turn around and he throws the chair at me because a lizard jumped out and scared him my dad was hilarious and will live on in all of our hearts

“ As Scott's father, I am enormously saddened...I am just as enormously comforted by all that I have read here.... While I am not at all surprised that Scott had the impact you all have expressed, I am taken aback by the fact that you all have taken your time to share your experiences for others to share as well. And they all had a common theme... And for those who heard me at his wake, you will recall the word "Genuine"... That was Scott. Irreverent at times, but sincere always. We should all be so fortunate to have that endearing quality... and Victoria captured the essence of her Father in her loving thoughts about Scott, as read by Father Medina at the Funeral Mass.

Scott had no idea of how long he would be with us here on this "Journey of Life", as he called it, so he lived his life without regard to anything other than "What am I doing TODAY".

Consider that, and you can share in his legacy..

Thank you, Son.....you have taught me !

“ It’s not easy to put 11 years of being neighbors, friends, and family into words. It’s not easy to describe how much Scott meant to me or to list all the great times we had, but a few I know I’ll always smile when I think of are these:

Two grown men, six months after meeting using a shower curtain as a kite in pre hurricane winds

A half a dozen camping trips, including open beers I tried to hide in my pocket on trail walks and a lot of blood sweat and tears just trying to get the tents up!

All of the countless home repairs at my house that would have never been completed without Scott’s help.

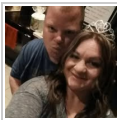

Nine o clock texts for our “date” every evening as our other halves would call it, just to talk about our day or nothing at all.

Sofa and Suds races, complete with the best slow motion fall ever.

You made the tough times easier, the good times funnier, and the best times more memorable. You will always be in our hearts and memories and we will always be here for your family that you truly loved so much.

“ I have to admit, I was terribly angry when we left the hospital after Scott passed away on October 8th. Since then, I have vowed that I will not allow my emotions to be ruled by anger. Instead, I am grateful. Grateful for the love we were able to share together, for the family we created that had nothing to do with blood and everything to do with a village of people united to support each other. I am grateful for the happiness we experienced with Scott. The belly laughs, the insane debates, the sometimes ridiculous conversation between the boys in little cul de sac crew, even the inappropriate texts Scott and Jason would joke about, and how people would certainly take them the wrong way if their phones were ever hacked. What all of us close to Scott had, it was more than some people ever get a chance to experience in a friend and family member and remembering all of that is what will get us through. Scott gave us an amazing gift.... a reminder to appreciate life, to appreciate all of the people that love us, and to always laugh. Thank you, our dear friend.... For everything. Jennifer Pavlak

Jen,
We too are grateful for the family we have created in our cul de sac. I am so thankful that I have you! We have many memories that we can always look back on and laugh as we remember the great times all of us shared. Words cannot describe how much you mean to me. You are truly an amazing person and I thank you for putting up with us! Love you

“ I am Victoria and I have been so blessed to be Scott’s eldest daughter. I wanted to take a moment to thank you all for coming here today to help us say goodbye to not only a beloved Father but a beloved husband, son, brother, uncle, nephew, cousin, and friend. To me, my Father was my guiding light. He was the foundation grounding not only me, but this family. My father was, in his own way, like a light house, I think that is why he loved them so much. He related to them. He was that beacon of light that would shine even if the toughest of storms, always guiding us back to the safety of his arms. He set the example of what a good husband, father, son, brother, uncle, nephew, cousin, and friend should be. He always did his best to be patient with all of his children, even though sometimes we drove him crazy. However, through it all he was always there and he always made you cry, then smile, then cry again when you were in trouble. Yet, when he was done lecturing you on the staircases in our house, he would always end it with a hug and an “I love you”. He never left you feeling sad or heart broken, just loved. So Daddy, I just want to tell you that “I love you”. We love you and even though we are all going through all these waves of emotions, we know that you would want us to remember you, and how much you loved us. My Father loved all of his children unconditionally, and was always devoted to my Mother. He had a lot on his plate with the four of us but he was the balance in our lives, the rock that was our foundation. He tried to give each of us the gift of his time, and believe me, we were all jealous. My brother, sister, and I usually have fights as to who was his favorite, and I still firmly believe that it's me. As you all know, my Father put up a great fight and has finished the race. No words can express how much love and despair is in this room, but as I look at all of you, I want you to remember that even in the toughest of times, there is always a lighthouse guiding us home. For me, I know that my Father will always be that light, shining brightly in a lighthouse.

“ My heart hurts for the whole Hiss family and the Real family and Pavalak family who were as close as family could be to each other. I am sorry we will not be able to travel there to attend the services but we have plans already to be in town on the 31st. Will see all you you then. Thanks to everyone who kept Roger and I updated on everything the last few months. It meant the world to us and we miss all of you. Scott you were a joy to know and when anyone was down or not feeling well you knew how to get a laugh out of them and make them feel better! That is what I will always remember. Love you guys!!

“ I had the pleasure of working with Scottie, he was a fun-loving guy who made doing what we do in the lumber business fun. He was a loving husband and father. My heart aches for his family, knowing that his younger daughter and son will grow up without their Dad. I include him and the entire Hiss family in my thoughts and prayers.

Scottie was "one of the good ones" as I have a tendency to say. I've truly enjoyed my time working with him, with Tuesday afternoons consisting of colorful discussions, humorous antics, and reflections of being Dads.. Scottie was a lighthearted, fun, and caring guy. He took pride in his work at 84 and as a dedicated husband and father. I treasure my time with Scottie and will miss him dearly.

“ We will always remember Scott as a loving son, father and friend. His laughter will ring in our hearts for years and years to come. We grew to appreciate his deep discussions and deep dish pizzas. We will miss our Hiss Family Pizza Competitions...he usually won! While we may not see him, we will sense his presence in all those he loved. We will be strong Scottie Boy, and will eventually create "The Scottie Pizza" in your honor.. With all our love to Scott and his family, we will sadly miss you. Aunt Ronnie and Uncle Jim.

“ Scott was my neighbor, but he and his beautiful family became like family to us. We have raised our kids together and shared in endless memories. I will remember the poker games, salsa dancing in our garage, cook outs, birthdays, holidays and just because days. He always found a way to make me laugh even when he was being a huge pain!! He would tell people that I shined my dining room table with taco grease, even though he knew very well that I was Puerto Rican 😂 I always told him that God made us neighbors for a reason. For those of you who know Scott well, you can imagine how interesting our talks of God were. Scott was always there for us when we needed any help at the house, and I loved his home made pizza!!! When he was out of work, he baked the best breads 😊 He spoiled us during that time. I will never forget my friend. He will always be in my heart. Thank you Scott. I love you.

“ My big brother... I will cherish all those times you held me down and tickled me to no end, held me down and dangled your spit in my face and sucked it up at the very last second before it hit my face, all those times you made me laugh so hard I cried...and even the times you held me down and farted on me.
