“ Coleen Bennett - Friend of Charles posted a condolence I am so sorry I never had the pleasure of meeting your lovely daughter. From everything I have heard about her, she was every parent's dream. Although her life was too short here on this Earth, I know she touched everyone she met and left behind wonderful memories that they can cherish and hold on to. God must have needed a special Angel in Heaven so he called her home. God knows how much this Angel was loved and how much she will be missed. I know God will help you and your family, Justin, and her many friends deal with this unexpected loss. Just LEAN ON HIM... You are all in my prayers.

“ Fred Brownbill - Co-worker to Charles posted a condolence I never had the privilege of meeting your daughter, Sherry, but from all I have heard and read, she sounds like an amazing person. She was very loving and loved, and I know her soul will be looking over your shoulders and watching you all. Her work here on earth was done, and I am sure that there are other important tasks ahead of her. God will bless and loom after her and all of her family. My prayers are with you all.

“ Carl - Friend posted a condolence I was blessed to have met Sherry. She was a ray of light in all that she met, and although that light has dimmed, the glow will remain in all our hearts. I am honored to say that she was a part of both my social, and work life, and in both arenas she was there to make both a much more enjoyable place. I will miss seeing you everyday, but carry you forever in my heart. Mr. & Mrs. Ogletree, thank you for giving us all such a precious gift, and know she is there watching over you now. Justin, you know that not only is she there with you as well, but you may have been the closest one to her ever. God Bless!

“ Lois Coots - former Lealman Elem. teacher posted a condolence Sherry was the type of student that I always wished my entire class would be like. I knew then at that young age that she would be successful and well-liked by everyone. I am saddened that her life was taken before she could accomplish all that she wanted to accomplish. Our community has lost a young person who had a lot to offer. My heartfelt sympathy goes out to her family and the many friends she has left behind.
