“ I am so sorry to hear of the passing of Suzanne. She was a wonderful lady who I knew from years ago. All of the Morris family were wonderful people. Bob Heany's family were long time friends who I knew very well. My prayers go out to everyone.

“ We have been traveling and just learned that we lost Suzanne! She was a founding member of our Lit Chicks book group and was a faithful member. We are so sad to learn we won't have her great laugh and her stories to share when we reconvene in September. Our thoughts are with Bob and her family. Suzanne was an spark to our group that we cannot replace and we will miss her so much.

“ My heart is breaking.

I've learned that a cherished mentor of mine, Suzanne Heany, is no longer with us.

I reflect upon the "Butterfly Effect" that she was in my life.

During my apprenticeship at Hobbs & Tolley Studio in Washington, DC (1994-1996), she taught me single-handedly how to do Copperplate (Engrosser's) Script writing.

She introduced me to and encouraged me to join the Washington Calligraphers Guild (I would never have met such wonderful calligraphers and other mentors if this never occurred... people like Sheila Waters and Michael Clark, and countless other talents both domestic and international. So many to list, I could probably travel to the moon and back with the chained length of names).

She, it was, that gave me the "blessing and permission," if you will, that I could go ahead and combine calligraphy and illustration to result in a most impactful and influential artwork. I didn't have to choose one over the other. At that particular point in my life, I learned more from her about being an artist than I did from four years of college.
