And on this day of St. Patrick, I take a wee dram of good whisky out on the deck overlooking the still waters of the lake with a quiet toast to Thom. A long time ago we taught each other, we learned from each other, we worked hard, we played hard, and we laughed hard. Thom, wasn't that a time...

“ Thom was a great friend and a valiant warrior... He fought in 'Nam, and fought for his life afterwards 'till the end. He taught me how to dig for clams in the Indian River Lagoon... we laughed and I swallowed half the river that day. He has called me "Clammer" ever since. I will always remember his big, warm smile... RIP, my dear friend!!! Connie Brostek, NSB
