“ Another Christmas without you... Was is it really two years ago we were putting together Paisley’s play kitchen, you bought me those hot pink fuzzy slippers that I wore until I couldn’t wear them anymore... I know you are celebrating the birth of Jesus with the Angels, sharing all of that wonderment with Oni and our friends and relatives who are with you. Love you... Love you more...

So many memories...I do have more just have to locate them.

Todd with that long hair....I remember he grew it out for "locks of love" for kids with cancer it had to be 8 inches long and once it got that long and i cut it short again...they refused it due to too much gray it in. ha figures

Todd did have a fun life. It might have taken a little push to get him to go somewhere but once you got him there he had to be kicked out to leave. he just didn't want the fun to end.

I hope family and friends enjoy these.

“ Happy birthday in heaven with the Angels, Todd!! Today you will be celebrating with Jesus! I cannot help but smile when I remember spending your birthday at JB's, being the last ones to leave and dancing in the rain in the parking lot, & Texas de Brazil, How you loved that lobster bisque...that silly grin you would get on your face when my whole family was standing around singing happy birthday over a giant Carvel ice cream cake...Or your birthday when I played hooky from work and we spent the day at new Smyrna Beach.. enjoy your day, you always downplayed it, but I know you loved it!

“ I can not believe todd is no longer here. how!! what!! he was so full of life. todd had a lot of friends i always said he must know at least 75% of a sanford. he taught me so many things he was very smart and extremely honest person. he did have a fun life and always felt enjoying yourself was more important than going to work everyday (more of us could learn from that) It is hard to sum up memories of 40 years that we shared together in a short paragraph. I have so many pictures i could upload here, it is hard to go thru them without breaking down but i will get some on here soon. we have had talks about when our time comes to go and he always said not to cry for him he will be in a better place and won't have to pay bills anymore. once again always trying to be funny. i remember being at the sanford civic center after school todd was 9 years old and he was holding my hand. that was the start of us i guess. during middle school we use to hang out at the skating rink it was the friday/saturday place to go and todd could skate backwards really good but when he was not on the rink he would take his skates off because it was not "cool" to keep them on. haha. todd loved music his favorites were rush, blue oyster cult and thin lizzy. but he loved all genres and had quite a collection of cd's. he loved animals and we had many cats and dogs over the years and use to raise baby birds.

the love i have for todd is still there. i am very happy that todd got to have a fun life with and without me in it. our relationship is not forgotten by far and he will be missed by many people. i will think of him everyday and miss him forever. he was taken from us way too early.

if anyone in the family needs anything call on me i am here to do whatever i can always “ I'm still in shock, Todd and I go way back , neighbors, friends, and many other adventures were had. I love Todd, he was always there when I needed someone to talk to, as I was always there when he needed to talk, which was always 2 in the morning, lol. . An awesome man was called to go way to early. Im sure my mom was there to give you huge hugs, as she loved you as well. I love you Todd. My prayers to your family.

Todd I will miss you every day from today until my own passing. Thank you for all the years of friendship, laughter, music and just hanging out. You were like my second brother. I will never forget spending so many "laugh till you run out of breath" fun nights with you, or on the phone where you liked to be, "a fly on the wall" or playing music for hours saying "guess who this is" or "whats the name of that band". This world has lost a wonderful person, Heaven has gained a glowing soul. So Todd.... until we meet again, late....

“ Todd, you are not suppose to leave me to handle this all alone. You're suppose to be here with me as my older brother. I still can not believe that our Lord has called you and our sister here home to be with him. The Lors must have a reason and some day we will find out when we are all together again.

I miss you big brother!

“ There are many emotions that are going through my mind as to why God called you and why God thought this was your time. Todd you were VERY loved in ways that no one could ever explain. You had 15 half brothers and sisters from the Fitzpatrick Family along with many, many nieces and nephews who loved you VERY much no matter what the circumstances were. We wish things would of been different and that we lived closer to you or vice versa. I will cherish every moment that I got to see you and talk to you forever in my heart. You were my oldest/big brother and you will always be. No one could ever take your place. I hope that you are at peace. We will forever miss you. We love you unconditionally. I know Dad met you with open arms even though it is sad that you are both gone, I know that you are together. My Angels in Heaven. Rest Easy
