“ My sister cousin.

There are no words to really say how I feel but to say who you are to me says it all. You know me before me, so you know me very well. You are my big sister, my big cousin, my protector, my comedian, my jokester, my when I got older we about to go out and partier, my get on my nerves-er, my teacher, aunt to my babies, my babysitter and vice versa, my I really like your honey blonde hair, so I'm going to rock the same hair color for years (which made me feel fly), my encourager to be me-er, my example of a free spirit, one that showed me how life works, my cheer upper when feeling down, ooooh the one who was mad for me, the one who would fight with you, the one who was always the same, the one who's love was always the same, the one who knew what to say when say it and how to say it, the one who seen the BS from far away and caught it for me and put it in my hand, my deep thought sharer, the one who got me, my I got your backer, one who knew and grew with me, one who remembered growing with me, one that helped me grow. My will always be my sister cousin. I love you Net
