“ When I first met Bill I was his client for both my personal and business insurance. We became friends. I looked forward to Bill stopping by my office every year to update and clean up my insurance files. We always had interesting conversations about our spouses, our children, Bill's grandchildren, and of course politics. Bill spoke of his parents and of his visits with them when they were in assisted living. I now have grandchildren too and I wish I could tell Bill about them. Bill was the sort of person who was never a stranger and the sort of person you felt like you had always known. My condolences to Bill's lovely wife April, to his children and to his entire family.
I am grateful for the opportunity to have known Bill and I will miss him.
My best to his family,

“ DJ Uncle Jed here from the Toucan Willie's Days...and personal family friend via Marlys O'Malley. Bill was always kind to me and quick with a joke and smile and always asked about my family and wanted to be certain we were doing well. His aura was always a bright spot when he came in the room, no one was able to miss Billy. Very few people can leave a mark on you this way, a sense of warmth that was made in his demeanor and his handshake. Thanks for sharing your laugh, your grace, your ability to lend a hand when needed, you are missed. God speed Bill, we were all better for having you in our lives. --Jed Broitman
